Senator Gershaw Speaks on The New Indian Treaty

Senator P. W. Gershaw speaking before the Senate in Ottawa on Bill 73, a new treaty with the Indians, spoke as follows:

Honorable senators, I would like first of all to compliment Mr. Minister on his speech from New Westminster (Hon. Mr. Reid) on his able presentation of this measure. Bill 73 is really a treaty with the Indians, and as such will become part of the record of the transactions between those native occupants of this country and ourselves.

Speaking more particularly for the central West, I may say that for two long centuries before confederation the Canadian Indians were accustomed to trading in the region of Hudson's bay had control of that vast territory. Then in 1869, just two years after confederation, an agreement was concluded by which they gave up their lands to the Imperial government; and in 1870, by Royal Proclamation, the country between Ontario and British Columbia became part of the Dominion of Canada.

In that vast region stretching 900 miles south from Winnipeg there were a number of half-breeds settlements, a few white settlers and some white traders around the Hudson's Bay posts, also there were some who brave and heroic Christian missionaries, plus some 30,000 Indians living a wild nomadic life and frequently engaging in tribal warfare. There was no enforcement and consequently lawlessness and disorder was common. This culminated in the Cypress Hills massacre, which so shocked the people of the Dominion of Canada that some 300 young men were recruited in the east and went west. They were the originals of the Northwest Mounted Police. They made an amazing march across the continent to the foothills of the Rockies, and there established themselves in the enforcement of law and order and the protection of the lives and property of the people who lived there.

When this great territory became part of the Dominion many problems presented themselves to the government. First, they had to secure title of the property from the Indians. They had also to survey the land and establish some means of communication and most important of all, they had to establish a rule of law in that district where savages had roamed for so long.

Several of these problems had to be dealt with at once. There were, for instance, a great many squatters on the land and the Indians and the government made it known that bona fide settlers would have their rights respected.

The story begins, as good stories should, at the beginning. You are born and in the birth notices there is an announcement that your father and mother have been blessed with a son.

Then Dad and Mom go away on a trip and take you with them. So your name appears. The years pass and you go to school. Every so often you come home for vacation.

You are on the hockey team or the ball team as you grow older and your name is mentioned. Then comes the great moment in the early part of your life—high school graduation. Then comes college and home again.

As the years roll on your hometown paper tells the story of your social life, your community achievements, the birth of your children, the honors that come to you. Finally at the end of your long and happy life you appear in the obituary column.

Thus you and your hometown paper are closely connected. Without you there would be no community news paper. Without your community newspaper there would be no published story of you.

Now tell me, why your life story in your hometown paper records your doings—the happy occasions in your life, your sorrowful ones, your achievements. Your home town paper is your paper.

ALL THROUGH YOUR LIFE

Did you ever stop to think that in all the world there is only one newspaper that is really interested in you? And that is your hometown paper. Big city dailies are only interested in you when you commit a crime, break your neck or do something especially spectacular or foolish.

But your home town paper is interested in you all through your life. Over the years it tells the story of you.

The story begins, as good stories should, at the beginning. You are born and in the birth notices there is an announcement that your father and mother have been blessed with a son.

Women do eighty percent of the buying of clothing and dry goods. More rapid style changes and greater turnover in women's apparel than in men's causes a greater volume of sales. Some 55 percent of all sales by dry goods concern represents purchases by the women for their own use, including ready to wear garments, stockings, lingerie, hats, hose and other forms of feminine wear. Children's clothing and outerwear make up 7 per cent of the total, while linens, draperies and other household furnishings account for 18 per cent. Women's accessories, including cosmetics, make up 17 percent of the dry goods volume could be attributed to the purchase for men—and if shirts, socks, ties, etc., bought by wives, or the interests of female children in the purchase of gifts and handkerchiefs discontinued, the purely masculine share in the buying would doubtless be still further reduced.

The Dollar Crisis

A GREAT DEAL HAS BEEN HEARD during the past few years concerning the dollar shortage in Britain and the effect which this shortage has on trade relations between that country and Canada and the United States. It has proved to be one of the post-war problems for which no quick or simple solution can be found, but it is interesting to know that Canada is not alone in this difficulty. The British press has frequently referred to as "the dollar crisis". Most Canadians are aware of the large amounts of British goods which have been on the market here for the past few years and through buying these products Canada has been able to send many dollars to Britain.

Canada Buys More Than U.S.

Over 450,000,000 dollars worth of British goods have been imported into Canada since 1945. This figure shows that imports have increased steadily through 1948 and British exports to this country reached a peak in 1949. It has been suggested in Britain that other nations could follow the lead given by Canada in building up equitable trading on global markets. A statement on this subject released here recently by the British government reflected Canada's efforts in this matter as "bright spot in the solution of the dollar problem".

Exports Must Be Increased

Britain is aware of a need for a favourable trade balance between that country and Canada when the United States will suffer. With this in mind, Canada is being urged to continue its present policy of buying British goods. We are reminded that in spite of the fact that we are purchasing large amounts of British goods at this time, we are exporting to Britain more than three times the value which they sell to us. In conclusion the statement released by the United Kingdom government on this matter says "The big disparity between Britain's exports to, and imports from Canada, must and can be reduced before Marshall aid ends in 1952". In continuing to buy British goods Canada is making a very practical contribution toward the solution of this problem.

Appetizing Recipes For Jams and Jellies

Damson Preserves

Wash Damson plums well. Pit each plum in four places. Weight the fruit and use an equal weight of sugar. Add from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of water for each pound of sugar depending on degree of juiciness of plums. Combine sugar and water and strain to remove pulp. Boil continually until sugar is dissolved. Add prepared fruit. Cook until fruit is tender and mixture clear. Stir with care, as the fruit will burst if broken. Pour the jam into sterilized jars. Boil the syrup further if needed to thicken. Cover and store over fruit in jars. Clean edges of jars when set at once. Cool. Store.

Pineapple and Strawberry Preserves

1 large pineapple
4 quarts strawberries
4 cups candied ginger, roughly chopped, add strawberries not too ripe. To 1 cup of fruit, add 1 cup sugar, cook until thick.

Ginger and Pear Jam

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup diced candied ginger
4 cups prepared fruit
7½ lbs. pears
1 bottle Certo

To prepare the fruit—Dice about $\frac{1}{2}$ pound candied ginger. Measure to 4 cups prepared fruit. Peel and core about 3 pounds full ripe pears. Chop very fine or grind. Measure 4 cups into saucerman with ginger.

To make the jam—Add sugar to fruit in saucerman and mix well. Place over heat in a small rolling boil, and boil hard 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then add sugar by turns for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once. Makes about 10 six-ounce glasses.

Sour Cherry Jelly

Three cups (12 oz.) juice
4 cups (1 lb.) granulated sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin
Stem (do not pit) and crush about 2½ pounds cherries. Add ½ cup water, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. If a stronger cherry flavor is desired, add a few crushed cherry pits during simmering.

Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. If there is any juice left in the bag add enough water to pulp in jelly cloth and squeeze again.

Cook pulp until dry and add 1 cup water. Add powdered fruit pectin and measure juice into 3 to 4 quart sauceman and place over hottest fire. Add 1 powdered egg white to each quart of juice. Stir until mixture comes to a boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. Continue to boil until pulp and pectin are completely dissolved. Remove from heat and boil hard 5 minutes. Remove from fire, skin, pour into Paraffin hot jelly at once.

Pineapple and Strawberry Jam

4 cups prepared fruit
1 cup Certo

To prepare the fruit—Pare 4 ripe, green, fully ripe pineapples. Grind. Cut them into about 1 quart pieces. Ripen strawberries. Combine fruit. Measure 4 cups into a very large jar.

To make the jam—Add sugar to fruit in saucerman and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in bottled fruit pectin.

Then add sugar by turns for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once. Makes about 10 six-ounce glasses.

Grape and Thyme Jelly

OF WHEAT

Two important agricultural meetings will be held in Western Canada this month. The Canadian Seed

Growers' Association will hold their 47th annual meeting at Saskatoon from June 20th to June 22nd and the Agricultural Institute of Canada will hold its 31st annual meeting and convention at Winnipeg from June 23rd to 26th.

All farmers who can, it is suggested, should try to attend these two meetings for they will most certainly hear discussions that will be of value to them, and which will assist them to improve their farm practices. The Canadian Seed Growers, specializes in ways and means of producing that most excellent and high quality material. Elite and Registered seeds and stocks which form the foundation of the quality of Canadian field crops. The Agricultural Institute of Canada deals with every phase of agriculture mainly from a scientific point of view. These scientists will discuss the latest practices and what scientific discoveries and innovations promise for the future.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

MISS MAISIE'S MYSTERY

Answering Advertisements
In The Personal Columns
Could Be Very Dangerous.
Said Miss Collins

By MARY L. AKSIM

MRS. COLLINS had seen three of these square white envelopes die in an unkind male hand before she mentioned the peculiar matter to Mrs. Collins. Mrs. Collins did not believe it trying to bring her room private from the other girls, she said. But when Miss Maisie Humphries, who had been with Mrs. Collins for two years, told her that she was known to have no relatives or close friends, suddenly began to get more regular "oversize" mail.

Mrs. Collins thought otherwise. For twenty-three years he had seen Miss Maisie slipping in and out of the front door at all hours of the day and night, and now tried to restrain his wife from a frontal attack upon the thin seamstress.

"Now of our business at all!" he snapped and watched Mrs. Collins narrowly until she carried the last letter back to the table in the front hall where she had been seated when Miss Maisie had come in. "Mrs. Collins," he said, "you must be very dangerous."

"But it might be someone trying to rob us," said Mrs. Green.

"Dear Miss Humphries," it ran, "I am sorry to say that I have just received word from my husband that we are to be married and ratified his paper tomorrow. His wife recognises this ancient storm signal and hurried into the dining-room to lay the table this evening."

But if Mr. Collins wasn't interested in Miss Maisie's mail there were others who were. Miss Elizabeth West England, the practical nurse who lived in the front room downstairs, had noticed the envelopes, too, and she and Mr. Dunlop, the doctor, were in consultation in the dining-room before the other residents appeared.

Miss Maisie was lonely and had answered one of those advertisements in the personal column.

"Women can be very dangerous," she sniffed.

Mr. Dunlop and Mr. West, who were the lawyer and the two authorities on financial matters, gave it as their opinion that Miss Maisie was being pampered by a bond salesman who wanted to marry her.

"Follows like that will take any means to make a sale," said Mr. West. "I think you're right, Mr. Dunlop," added Mr. Collins, nodding in agreement. But Mrs. Collins still was not satisfied.

"Why don't we just ask her out?" she suggested.

Miss Maisie was a long time in her room after that. She could not serve a second cup of tea to the clerks to keep them at the table. For a moment Mr. West thought that the offer of a date would be accepted.

While he was eating his second piece of pie as well, and led on by this impression, he made bold to offer to put her to the test. Miss Maisie him.

She was a good sport, though. Mrs. Collins looked at the other two men.

"What did I tell you?" she said.

Miss Maisie was a good sport, too, in her room after that. "You've gotten pretty much mail lately, A17?"

Mr. Dunlop was completely taken aback but he managed to stammer a hasty reply in his defense.

Mr. West turned to Miss England.

"You been getting much mail?" he asked.

Miss England's reply resembled no sound so much as a hissing cat. She was exasperated at Mr. West's manner of keeping to take the test of his hands.

"No, I think Miss Maisie's the only one who has been getting any letters about mail."

Mrs. Collins murmured in agreement.

Town & District

Bob Black has been appointed census taker here and spends his spare time counting people and asking questions. The 1941 census man here was the late W. H. James; 1931 was the late B. Thorburn; and in 1921 our postmaster Thomas Baker had the job. We do not remember who took the census in 1911.

Senior Engineer Lester started putting water into the irrigation system to thoroughly test out the pipes for leaks. He did find a couple of leaks.

Work was to have started Monday to fix up the town's main street but the wet weather prevented a start. A lot of earth is to be moved from the road way and when that is done gravel will be used to fill in the road.

Mrs. R. A. Wilson has returned home after spending a few days in a hospital in Calgary and is feeling fine.

The taking of the census in Canada received a great deal of attention in 1941. The first modern census was taken in 1851. The last modern census was taken in 1941 and it was taken in Canada. It was the 18th century before Europe followed the lead of the Dominion of Canada and in 1790 the United States took its first census.

Electric power went off about 10 o'clock Monday morning, for about two hours. The trouble spot was reported to be near Rockford.

The Alberta government put in a good road to Arrowtown last year. In fact after it was gravelled it was the best road put in there. But it is always going places. Sunday the heavy rain ran down the road to its lowest level and then headed for deep ditch on either side of the road. This caused the water to go out the side of the road in one place after another and four feet. Given some more heavy rain and the road will be broken.

Some oil well equipment consisting of an engine and other materials aboard a large truck was run over as it came into town Monday afternoon. The driver seemed to be unaware of the blare until someone drew his attention to it. The truck was stopped and equipment rushed to the scene but not used. The driver of the truck had some chemicals not soon used it up. Since it was a gasoline truck he stopped at a service station and got a big supply from his implement house and the blaze was put out in short order. The gasoline had been leaking from the engine aboard the truck but just how it caught fire is not known.

Some unknown writer has expressed the following thought on trees which wakes a response in the hearts of most Gleichenites. A tree knows not about the nature of the sun and summer rain, the birth of leaves and glory of their death; but too, it knows the torture of thirst and the distress of storm and misery a crop of it. It has little fear of falling or breaking for fear of wise with the wisdom of years, it drinks of deep delight and defies with pride the challenges of evil. Under its sheltering arms the birds nest, the swallows build and warm nests, and children play. Beneath all are everlasting arms that shelter you and me. Alone with a tree I always feel that could I but listen a right, it would willingly explain the never failing springs of happiness beside the bitter waters of evil.

citizens of the Crown had to live separately with the tribes in these various districts and they did so by making a number of treaties—eight in all. The first two resulted in the turning over of the Crow's large area of Manitoba to the third part of Saskatchewan was disposed by, the fourth, a district around Lake Winnipeg; later northern Saskatchewan and southern Alberta were added in 1899 the last treaty was made, relating to the Peace River country. The terms of these treaties were not all alike, although the records seem to be a little indefinite on the exact boundaries.

It may be said that apart from the reserves the Indians turned over to the government the title to the great areas which they had occupied for ages in order to keep the territory open to others.

Mr. Gershaw said that the First Water was not to be sold on the reserves. In return for these concessions, each Indian was given an initial payment of $12.50 and then an annual amount each year, woman and child on the reserves would receive an annuity of $5 "as long as the sun shines," the winds blow and the streams run.

Each Indian was allowed $25 annually, and each of his concubines or heirs, men got $15 a year. Each of these ranking officers received a suit of clothes every year. Schools were to be established, and an annual grant made for ammunition, fish nets, twine and things of that kind. But the chief thing that the Indians received was the reservation of 64 acres for each family of the tribe.

Also, once and for all the government agreed to give the Indians farm implements, cattle and horses. It was not then contemplated that the Indians would be helped, but since then, of course, they have been renewed at different times.

Funny or Otherwise

The minister had just finished an excellent chicken dinner. As he looked out of the window, a rooster stood outside the window. "My!" said the minister. "That certainly is a hot bird," he said. "Yes, sir, it is a hot bird," he said. "It has reason to be proud. One of his sons just entered the ministry."

She had insisted on taking along every garment she owned. They arrived across the ocean in her baggage, "I wish," said the husband thoughtfully, "that we'd brought our piano." "Now, let's not try to be funny," came the frigid reply. "I'm not trying to be funny. I left the tickets

"Way do you insist on a 'Hill Way'" asked the saleslady. "Because I'm tired of having the wool pulled over my eyes," the female customer replied.

A pretty girl got on the crowded bus a pale looking fellow started to get up. But she pushed him back. Finally he yelled, "Get off!" and she got off.

"Do you know anything about those detectors we hear so much about?" "I've been married to one for twenty years."

Canada has made great strides in duck conservation but sportmen say the need is still to save these birds lies ahead.

Auto production has increased 1,888 per cent since the first motor show was held in New York 50 years ago.

Hunters have so decimated moose in Canada that they are in danger of becoming extinct.
